

AFRICAN DEVELOPMENT BANK (AFDB) YOUTH EMPLOYMENT AND SKILLS DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

Are you a final year undergraduate students who are on a path to graduation by December 2020 in any African University, this is an opportunity for you. The University of Nairobi has been selected, among a few African universities, to participate in a Youth Employment and Skills Development Pilot Project. The project plans to provide free employment-relevant online training to randomly selected students for 6 months. The training is intended to help new university graduates' success in the job market locally and internationally. Courses to be covered will include data analysis (data analytics), digital marketing, financial analysis and budgeting, Information technology skills etc.... which are in high demand by industries in Kenya and internationally. Upon successful completion, students will be awarded a certificate of completion. Deadline for registration 14th August 2020. Click here to register.